INSURGENTS BLOCKED AGAIN

DEMOCRATS HELP REGULARS ON RAILROAD BILL.

Agreement Reached to Dispose of Last Obstacle to Passage of the Measure in Senate Cummins's Amendment on increase of Rates to He Beaten.

WASHINGTON, May 24.-It looks tonight as if the Senate leaders will have moved within a day or two the last serious obstacle to the passage of the ministration railroad bill. The ingents have been contending for several days that they had the votes to put through brough the Cummins amendment givng the Interstate Commerce Commission power to approve all increases of rates before they shall become effective.

The maurgents on one or two other occasions in the struggle over the railroad bill have held victory almost in their grasp only to lose through concessions made by the Republican regulars to their Democratic brethren. Again the Republican leaders and some of the Democratic Senators have reached a tentative understanding which will yield the necessary votes to insure the defeat of the Cummins insurgent amendment.

The basis of the present understanding is an amendment by Senator Martin, Demoerat, of Virginia, which extends the time for which the Interstate Commerce Commission may suspend any increased rate from 120 days to six months. This proposed extension was agreeable to some of the near insurgents and a majority of the Democrats. The real insurgents, however, will be satisfied with nothing than the Cummins amendment in the form in which it was offered by the Iowa Senator.

An understanding also has been reached between the Democrats and regular Republicans by which the last three amendment defeated and the last three sections of the bill eliminated the long drawn out fight over she railroad bill ill be nearing the end. Senator Cummins add that is so important to the public. Sen-ator Smith of Michigan said he did not lieve that it was wise arbitrarily to fix a rate by law and he expressed the ppinion that such is the purpose of the mendment of the Senator from Iowa. nator Cummins said he would rather trust the Government to fix rates than any railroad on the face of the earth. ator Borah took advantage of an opportunity to hit one or two of the Republican regulars who are fond of expressing the views of the White House Senator Borah was quoting from Presi-dent Taft's Des Moines speech to the effect that railroads should not be per-mitted to change rates unless first giving "I take the President," said Senator

Borah, referring to the public speech, by what he says to the people and not by what he whispers to those who ply their trade between the White House and curtail the votume of business, the Chicago Railways receivership had no apparent effect on the stock market yesterday. Formerly the Street looked upon the receivership of a big company as a highly unfavorable development, but speculators have latterly been more puzzled than ever fore as to what constitutes a bull argument and what a bear argument., In times no long past everybody knew that a receivership was certainly not a bull argu ent, though it might have no immediate market effect. But speculators learned vesterday that a receivership might be a development favorable to a company. The proposition was thus stated by a representative of Chicago Railways: "To secure a conservation of the property and its administration for the protection of the curity holders the property has temporarily been committed to the protection of the Federal courts." The development of business methods thus upsets an old theory

He said said nothing at all about a dividend on that there is notother question in the bill the common, which may or may not be considered a polite answer to a letter by interested brokers to President Hoyt some time ago. The brokers wanted to know what the prospects were for a com-> investment demand for securities of any indications. Yesterday accordingly a great deal of attention was attracted by the announcement that the bankers who purchased the $11,000,000 Pennsylvania equip-ment bonds had disposed of them all in little more than a day to investors and in-stitutions. The bonds mature serially and provide an especially attractive invest-ment for those who want a short term security. They were sold on a basis netting investors 415 per cent.

The daily hint from Paris, like most of others entirely unofficial, was that $50,000,000 St. Paul income bonds were being offered there privately at 97, or about per cent. basis. From this sugges-it was calculated with great nicety that St. Paul was to pay about 3% per cent for its money, the company paying French Government taxes amounting to about is per cent, annually for the life of the bonds and commissions estimated at about per cent. Nobody considered the estimate much more than guesswork, but some bankers thought it was good guessing.
